

Ribble's Spring 1 Homework Project

READING RIVERS

This half term your home learning project is to create a 'Reading River'.

Reading Rivers support children in not only recalling and reflecting on all the things they have read, but also offers teaching staff insights into what children are reading for pleasure when not in school.

Reading Rivers show the journey of reading over a set time, in this case, half term. Essentially, it is a personalized list, in the shape of a river's journey, with all the things you read marked along it. What extra information you add to it is up to you.

You can add details to you Reading River through writing, drawing or using pictures and labels (see examples below)

As well as story or non-fiction books you might read, you may also include things from the following list of ideas:

- Newspapers and magazines
- Road signs, maps
- Cereal boxes, menus
- Instructions and manuals
- Online reading, gaming menus,
- EBooks or audio books

You might add where you read these things or what you learn from them. You may also include a red, amber or green smiley face to indicate how well you feel you read these or how much you enjoyed reading them. The choice is yours.

Please hand in your Reading Rivers on Tuesday 20th February. We will make a display of the Reading Rivers in the school hall.

Be inventive, read lots, have fun.

Here are some examples of Reading Rivers. They can contain as much information as you want or just the title of the things you have read.

You can include drawings and pictures if you choose or it could just be based on a written account.

Google 'Reading Rivers' for more examples.

It can be colourful, bright and imaginative – but don't forget the information about what you have read.
