Mathematics Mental Calculations' Workshop Tuesday 14 November 6:00pm

As a school we are constantly reviewing our practise in school. One of these is how we teach maths calculations in school. We have been focusing on the way we teach mental calculations this term. We will be holding a workshop in school on Tuesday 14 November so we can share with parents how mental maths is now being taught in our school so you can support your child at home.

The following aspects of mathematics will be covered:

- To look at the ways in which the teaching of mathematics has changed;
- To look at how children calculate mentally;
- Try activities to develop mental calculation strategies in all four areas of calculations – addition, subtraction, multiplication and division;
- To look at ways in which parents can help their children.

After Christmas we will hold another meeting looking at written/formal method progression.

If you are interested in attending this workshop please could you complete the reply slip below in order for us to have an idea of numbers.

We hope that you can attend this workshop.

Yours sincerely

Mrs Taylor
